In another news article published by The Guardian, it was reported that TikTok's policy of removing potentially inappropriate content from its platform "is affecting users who uploaded videos innocently and inadvertently. A user with 1,600 followers posted a TikTok video of himself in his home and was then startled to receive an email from the company asking him to take down the video due to complaints. He said there were not any complaints but that the company may have correlated keyword searches with his account. He was not familiar with what terms may have been associated with his account."",

In an article published by The New York Times, it was alleged that "A class-action lawsuit filed against the app in January alleges that it discriminates against users based on ethnicity and gender, charges which TikTok denies." This article was published on The New York Times. In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "The Chinese social media giant announced the sale of $1.3 billion in shares to investors including the sovereign wealth fund China Life. This comes a little over a month after it went public in the U.S., raising $1 billion at a valuation of $25 billion." This article was published on TechCrunch.",

In April 2021, musical.ly launched TikTok in Japan and has since amassed a user base of over 20 million users. As of October 2021, it remains the most downloaded app in Japan despite competition from Line. The app was also announced that it would be available for download in Vietnam before the end of that month and did so on September 28th, 2021. Following this launch, the app's popularity increased significantly and took first place among all apps in Vietnam for the second week in November 2021 thanks to its viral success when used by singers who recorded their own take on a hit song "It's Raining Men." In December 2021, the app was launched in Thailand by entertainment conglomerate GMM Grammy after being ranked number one in Google Play for over a month.",

The criticism of TikTok from a lot of users is not surprising because this platform has been accused of violating its users' privacy in the past. A news article published by a German news outlet noted that "TikTok is no longer just a fun app for teenagers, but rather an attack tool aimed at the private lives and personal data of young people. The American app is the latest in a series of digital platforms to become notorious for breaches of privacy." The article continued to state that "The cross-platform app just received 10 million at-risk accounts. But this data is second-hand, because Snapchat does not make clear whether the images that appear on its platform are real or not." One of the biggest concerns with TikTok is that it allows users to upload sensitive personal information such as videos which include images of people who may be minors. In addition, if a user's account gets hacked, there is no way for them to know if their account has been used against them in a manner which causes harm or embarrassment. In addition, the app does not make clear to its users which videos are older than 24 hours or indicate that their account has been hacked. A lot of people have also expressed concerns about the fact that they do not know what data is collected and what it is used for by the app and that their privacy could potentially be at risk if they do not understand how to use this app as well as what data is being collected from them.", TikTok attracts advertisers by combining videos from self-made creators with those recorded by popular artists into one app. The company was able to sign up brands including Pepsi, Red Bull and Taco Bell within its first few months of operation. In June 2021, it was reported that the app had signed a deal with a major Indian record label called T-Series in order to market TikTok's new music feature in India and other parts of South Asia.",

An example of a questionable or potentially offensive TikTok is the following video, which shows some people riding a carousel after hours. The people in the video do not seem to be aware that they are being recorded, and appear to be surprised when they are confronted by a young man who questions them about their behaviour. The following is an example of one of the many videos on TikTok (which all have different names) that could be considered potentially inappropriate. In this video, two people eat and drink on a train that has no other passengers on it. This video was uploaded at 1:59 AM, which is unusual because it is against Chinese law for someone to ride a train alone at any time between midnight and 6:30 AM. As well, the fact that this video was uploaded at 1:59 AM, suggests that the people in the video may have broken this law.", Musical.ly has been criticized for its safety features and how it handles content; as of January 2021, the company had over 100 million worldwide users and close to three billion total video views. Safety and privacy concerns have also been raised about a number of high profile incidents within its community, including bullying, harassment, suicidal behavior, school shootings and self-harm. Teenagers and younger audiences who join Musical.ly are often regarded as young, impressionable teens and young adults who are easy targets for cyberbullying; in response to this, the company has made efforts to combat this prevalent issue by investing in tools that detect bullying text or comments on an individual's account.",

The app was banned by the Chinese government for several days in 2021 which triggered outrage from users of both Chinese and international versions of the app. The ban was lifted after 9 days but still remains in effect.", By December 2021, the app was reported to have 20 billion monthly active users across the 5 platforms that it is available on. In January 2021, networking service Centera said that TikTok had 20% of daily active user base on its platform as well as 10% of social media users overall. By August 2021, it was revealed that TikTok had 3 million monthly uniques in India which was up from 2 million in June 2021.",

The app had 10 million downloads in December 2021, and more than 17 million downloads by February 2021. In November 2021, Musical.ly announced that it had reached 100 million active users. The app was featured on "TIME"s "50 Best Android Apps" list, and its parent company Musical.ly was listed as one of the "Hottest Startups of 2021" by CNBC. In a 2021 study conducted by Frank N. Magid Associates, it was reported that 21% of teenagers in the US used Musical.ly, an increase from the 15% who used it in 2021.",

In another article published on The Guardian, TikTok was criticized for its lack of a privacy policy and transparency about how it uses users' data. "TikTok's chief marketing officer, Ed Wu, told Forbes the app has more than 200m monthly active users and that it is 'very transparent' about how it uses data for targeting advertising. However, he did not respond to questions about whether the app has a privacy policy and users were unable to find one in their apps because there isn't one. When asked about how long the company keeps users' data, Wu said in an emailed statement that it's 'subject to our internal policies and applicable law.'",

On September 6, 2021, TikTok collaborated with the BBC to launch a series called "Ask Me Anything." Users were able to submit questions about anything from their personal lives to what they thought about politics. The videos were branded with BBC's logo and had a link to the channel on the app. After the videos had been posted, the company announced that they would be taking action against any inappropriate content on the app. The company said that there were "two clear issues around our policy" and that they would be working to fix it. The first was that "the app is for 14+" and that children under 14 were able to register on the app even if they did not have consent from their parents. The second issue was a lack of enforcement when it came to inappropriate content in videos. Following this event, people under 18 were no longer able to create accounts on TikTok without consent from their parents or an adult guardian. The company also said that they wanted to give young people a platform to express themselves and help them understand that they can have fun but not in a way that could cause harm to others.",
